

Dear Parents/Guardians

TLT PROGRAM LAUNCH

-Helping to facilitate the holistic development of our young female leaders-

In our ongoing quest to facilitate the development of our young leaders, I am very excited to tell you about our partnership with TLT (Tomorrow's Leaders in Training).

TLT is a dynamic life empowerment and leadership skills program which was developed in 2017, in response to the ever-increasing pressure and expectations placed on young people today. The program has received extremely positive feedback from the schools where it is running, including King Edward VII School (KES), where it is going into its second year, and I think our girls will benefit enormously by being part of it. The curriculum is diverse and touches on many different aspects of life.

There is so much pressure on the girls to succeed, and for many of them, failure is not an option. That being said, failure is a very important part of life and learning and we have to teach the girls how to deal with failure, learn from it and grow as individuals. We focus so much on academic, sport and cultural success, but we often tend to neglect the soft skills, the emotional intelligence, the critical thinking and the leadership skills that are so important for highly functional individuals in civil society. We offer a holistic education model and this program fills a gap that is being somewhat neglected due to time-constraints, overloaded curricula and staff.

The TLT program, with its passionate course coordinators, will help the girls to reach inside themselves and to unlock the potential that we know is already there. It will give them the confidence and the skills to be the leaders we need them to be and to make a positive impact on society. It will help them to take ownership of their personal development, whilst helping to instil values that will help them to see and acknowledge others around them. TLT is a values-based program and aligns very well with the values-based education we offer. We expect all our girls to develop a values system which will allow them to work in an environment with others – honesty, respect, kindness, empathy and hard work - and this is all part of what this program teaches them.

Our country is crying out for better leaders and it is looking to schools such as ours to produce these leaders; people who can impact on society in a positive way. We all have a responsibility to heed this call and I hope that as parents, you will consider making this wonderful opportunity available to your daughters; they are worth it.

Yours sincerely
